Individual Development Plans (IDPs) have been used to support the career and professional development of graduate students across disciplines. This interactive session focuses on how IDPs can help you build your skills, form your professional identity, and take control of your career through an iterative process of self-assessment, career exploration, decision making and goal setting. To provide an introduction to the IDP process attendees will be able to take a self-assessment to learn about their particular strengths and begin to target their strengths toward their professional goals. Additionally a co-developer and researcher of IDP platforms will highlight the aspects that can help your IDP be more effective than others.

Dear Corrie Kuniyoshi,

On behalf of SACNAS, I am pleased to inform you that your proposal titled Individual Development Plans, your strengths, your career, and your professional identity has been accepted as a live interactive workshop for 2020 SACNAS — The National Diversity in STEM Virtual Conference happening October 19-24, 2020.

Schedule

This session has been scheduled for Friday, 10/23/2020, from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. Pacific time. Please email me at faith@sacnas.org no later than 5:00 p.m. Pacific time, on September 4, 2020 to confirm your participation.

Logistics

Your workshop will be hosted as a live video-conferencing networking session. You will be able to share your screen for your presentation if you so choose and will have features similar to Zoom. You will be contacted in the next two weeks with further instructions on how to prepare and what assets we will need to receive from you before your session.

Next Steps

Approved session presenters can register at a discounted price of 50% off the current registration price. This discount cannot be swapped or exchanged to anyone other than the listed presenters for your session. Exhibitors that are also presenters will receive a complimentary upgrade from expo-only to full conference for no additional cost. You cannot complete your registration and receive this discount, until after you confirm your session, all included session presenters, and all email addresses by replying to me via email at faith@sacnas.org by September 4, 2020. Once I receive your reply, I will respond to your email with additional instructions to register. For your reference, here are the listed speakers we have on file:
