

Inclusive Technical Interview Prep Initiative to Increase Academic Awareness at a Larger Scale

Edward Dillon

Department of Computer Science, Morgan State University, United States

Kinnis Gosha

Department of Computer Science, Morehouse College, United States

Krystal L. Williams

Louise McBee Institute of Higher Education, University of Georgia, United States

John J. Porter III

Department of Computer Science, Morehouse College, United States

Portia Smith

Karat Incorporated, United States

Abstract

This lightning talk discusses a workshop series initiative that seeks to increase awareness of the technical interview process in academia on a larger scale, especially with faculty at minority-serving institutions. This workshop also intends to empower faculty with effective tools to assist their students' preparation for technical interviews. This initiative is being conducted under the direction of the STARS Computing Corp through the support of the National Science Foundation.